4a Frazetta's Princess Statue and Ornament

This statue is #860/4000 (Clayburn Moore Creations, 1996). Frazetta's Princess by Clayburn Moore -- a cold-cast porcelain figure based on Princess Dejah Thoris as illustrated by Frank Frazetta, from the John Carter of Mars series by Edgar Rice Burroughs. The statue, a limited edition of 4,000 (this is #860), was issued in 1996 by Clayburn Moore Creations. The princess herself stands approximately 8.25" high, on a 6.5" diameter base that sits on a 7" diameter, 1.25" tall circular dark wood base. The overall height of the statue (with base) is over 9". In the original box. The statue was displayed and has a little dust. The wood base has some scuffing. The porcelain ornament stands about 4 inches tall and is #2621/3000. It comes in the original window-display box. Ornament has been displayed, but is in excellent condition.

Cover by Daniel Brereton. At the dawn of the Silver Age, Stan Lee, Jack Kirby and Steve Ditko - three of comics' greatest talents - had readers crying, "Make mine monsters," with a cadre of ten-ton terrors, from Torr to Manoo to the one and only Monsteroso! Backed up by weird tales of witchcraft, Martians and occult master Dr. Druid, it seemed that these titanic tales could never be topped. And then Lee and Ditko did just that, seamlessly transitioning into an all-new approach featuring aliens, time travel, ghosts and atomic nightmares! With lushly illustrated stories, Ditko set a new standard for comic art, and Lee raised the bar ever higher with his scintillating scripts. And, oh, in the last issue they created some guy named Spider-Man. Hardcover, 8 1/2-in. x 11-in., 448 pages, full color.

229 Dian Hanson's History of Pinup Magazines Vol. 1-3

All 3 volumes of the hardcovers with slipcase. Birth of the newsstand pin-up: The definitive annotated and illustrated history of pin-up magazines--1900-1969. Editor Dian Hanson traces the fascinating development of the genre from 1900 to 1969 in three compact, informative volumes. In Volume 1 you'll learn about the first magazines that appeared around 1900 in France, Germany, and the U.S., and follow the development of the genre through the First and Second World Wars. Covered are men's magazines masquerading as movie magazines, humor magazines, art magazines, nudist magazines, and "spicy" fiction. Volume 2 documents the proliferation of pin-up magazines following World War II, most notably a little item called Playboy that debuted in December 1953 and spawned dozens of imitators. This volume also charts the emergence of English men's magazines, fetish magazines, and the top five covergirls of the 1950s. Volume 3 begins with an explosion of new American pin-up magazines following the loosening of U.S. obscenity laws, and continues with French titles in decline, England going perky; nudists going hippy, and Germany going perky, hippy and political. 832 pages total.
